

On the 5th of October the IEEE student branch of Ajman University organized an event to celebrate the annual IEEE Day of 2020 which is a day where we celebrate when engineers worldwide and IEEE members gathered to share their technical ideas for the first time in 1884. Worldwide celebrations demonstrate the ways thousands of IEEE members in local communities join together to collaborate on ideas that leverage technology for a better tomorrow.

The event was hosted by the branch cabinet and around 40 people participated in it, from professors including Prof. Mustahsan Mir and Prof. Kamran Arshad, to the steering committee members, Engr. Wessam Shehieb and Engr. Nashwa Nazir, and ending with many students from various departments.

The event started by introducing the new student branch members, it then went on to explain more about the importance of the IEEE day, after doing some fun activities, students were given the chance to share their opinions and ideas on how to make this a great year with IEEE.

To conclude the event, all participants were asked to open their cameras and be part of the IEEE Day 2020 photo contest.

